

How Rent Control Affects You —

as a landlord as a tenant

As a part of the general plan to halt further increases in the Cost of Living, the Government on December 1, 1941, extended the policy of the Price Ceiling to rentals for all commercial and housing accommodation in Canada. Generally speaking the new rental laws provide that:

- (1) No oral or written lease for any commercial or housing accommodation (furnished or unfurnished) may legally be made after October 11, 1941, at a rental higher than the rental lawfully payable under the lease in effect on that date unless an application for increased rental has been made to and approved by a local Rentals Committee of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Such an application must be based on specified circumstances arising since October 11, 1941.

NOTE: Land and premises used solely for farm purposes are not subject to rent control.

- (2) A tenant is entitled to a renewal of his lease unless the landlord requires the premises for certain reasons named in the Board's Rental Orders and has given the tenant a written notice to vacate within the time and in the manner prescribed therein. If this notice to vacate is contested by the tenant, the landlord must secure a Court Order for possession.

- (3) Copies of all Rental Orders and Regulations of the Board and application forms for rental variations are available from any of the regional or sub-offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and in areas where such offices are not yet established, from the Clerk of any County or District Court or local Rentals Committee.

VIOLATIONS of these orders are punishable by law and should be reported in writing to the Prices and Supply Representative Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, at the nearest of any of the following cities: Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, London, Toronto, Brockville, Montreal, Quebec, Saint John, Halifax or Charlottetown.

Farm Magazine Announces

Big Crossword Puzzle Contest

$500,000 in Cash prizes is being offered in a unique and amusing Crossword Puzzle Contest to run in the Family Herald during February, March and April. Novel features of this Contest are: the exceptionally entertaining puzzle clues, the provision that contestants may enter at almost any stage of the game and the attractive, additional weekly prizes.

When the long winter evenings set in, the Family Herald's Big Annual Contest is welcomed eagerly in thousands of Canadian homes... for the Family Herald can always be counted upon to provide something really different and outstanding.

Family Herald Contests are always entertaining, because the editors of this 73 year old publication feel that every good contest should be designed to provide fun as well as profit. They also feel that, in these strenuous times, entertainment has a necessary and important place in well balanced living. Therein lies the reason behind the enormous bulk of entertaining features, stories, serials and contests the Family Herald provides for its readers.

To all who love fun, puzzling and the thrill of trying for a worthwhile cash prize (the top prize in the Crossword Puzzle Contest is $200,000) this new Family Herald Contest is one not to be missed.

The weather during January has been unusual for this time of the year. Old Tinner's say it is very much like the winter of 1910 and 1911, the winter, not being a resident here then, has to take their word for it. However, on Sunday the 25th (Robbie Burns Day by the way) we noticed some young people having a veranda party and Tuesday some children playing in the sand pile without mitts or hats, it looked and felt more like June than January. Very little snow has fallen here this winter, let's hope

The annual supper of the Friendly Circle was held Wednesday evening in the hotel there being 20 present, consisting of members and their husbands and in some cases, friends. After supper the evening was spent in playing games. All reported a very enjoyable time.

It's an omen for lots of moisture during the growing season next summer.

Canada's Seamen

"If it were not for the men who man the Canadian corvettes and the men in the merchant navy, the war would have been over long ago, and the Swastika would be flying over Buckingham Palace." In these words Commander H. D. Simonds of the Royal Navy, paid tribute to Canadian seamen in a recent address before an Ottawa service club. True it is, that the Battle of the Atlantic continues to be one of the grimmest phases of the world struggle. It is a battle that started in September, 1939, when the Athenia was sunk, a few hours after war was declared, and has gone on to this very hour and moment when some ship may be foundering, the victim of an enemy torpedo. During all that time there has waged a fierce and unrelenting struggle on the part of the Axis powers to break Britain's life-line to the new world, and an even grimmer determination on the part of the seamen of the Empire and the free democracies to keep that line intact.

Epics Of Heroism

So far it has remained, strong and sure, and into the accomplishment of that task have been written new epics of heroism, in the already glorious annals of British seafaring. Enough cannot be said of the courage of the men of the merchant navy, who cross and re-cross the ocean in their small ships, risking death, or hours of horror on the sea, should they encounter the enemy. Residents of Canadian sea ports are familiar with the sight of these little ships, with their ugly coats of camouflage paint; each with an anti-aircraft gun jauntily perched on the after-deck. Undaunted they look, cutting through the waves on their way to join a convoy, and carry the "Red Duster" triumphantly across the high seas. The crews of these ships are made up of steady-eyed men, who take their hazardous work in a matter-of-fact way, and are determined to stay at their posts, without regard for the dangers that menace all their time at sea.

If one were to talk with these men, there would be revealed a deadly hate for the Axis powers, and a firm resolve not to be turned from their tasks by any menace that may appear. Many merchant seamen have lost their lives, many have been maimed on their way to joining a convoy, and have been several times, but of having been "lucky" because they were rescued after hours or days of hardship. Now the struggle has spread to the Pacific, and as the battle in both oceans develops, Canadian sailors are playing an increasingly important part. Corvette ships, those small swift craft used so effectively in anti-submarine warfare, are manufactured in large numbers in the Dominion. Manned by Canadian seamen, many of whom are those incredibly fine sailors from the Prairie Provinces, they ply out of our ports on convoy duty, and their exploits have been noteworthy.

The Merchant Marine

The Hon. Angus Macdonald, Navy Minister, recently paid tribute to Canadian merchant seamen and those of friendly nations, when he said: "Not fogs, or winds, storms, nor currents, mines, nor torpedoes, bombs, nor bullets, have deterred our merchant seamen from their vital task." Mr. Macdonald also gave some interesting figures on Canada's importance in the Battle of the Atlantic. He stated that since the beginning of the war some eight thousand ships have sailed from these shores, carrying over fifty million tons of food and war material to Britain. The flags of seventeen nations have flown in convoys leaving Canadian ports, in what Mr. Macdonald called "a goodly company." Canadian shipyards have built with activity as crafts large and small are turned out in increasingly large numbers, and across the country alert young men are drilling and studying in preparation for manning these ships that will play their part in once again affirming the Empire's right to be called "The Mistress of the Seas."

Good Whale Catch

War-time Requirements Have Increased The Need For Products Obtained

Canadian whaling ships, operating from two stations on the British Columbia coast, landed 328 whales during the 1941 season as compared with 220 in the 1940 season, when whaling was resumed after a year of inactivity. The 1941 catch was likewise greater than in 1938 when 310 whales were taken.

Whales in Canada are used for the production of meal, fertilizer, and oil, with the oil the chief product. War-time needs have increased the demand for these products and have given new impetus to whaling operations.

The 1941 operations produced a total of 596,855 gallons of oil, approximately 577 tons of fertilizer, and 271 tons of meal. Compared with 1940 these returns show a decided increase. Oil production advanced more than 204,800 gallons and fertilizer production was up by about 143 tons. Meal production was 90 tons greater this year than in the preceding season.

It is a far cry from the square rigged whaling ships of olden days to the modern steel whaling tugs armed with harpoon guns and fitted for present-day operations but some of the risk and romance remains. During the 1941 season on at least one occasion and infuriated whale attacked a whaler after being harpooned, and damaged the steel craft so badly that it had to return to port for repairs.

To Save Steel

Britain Has Found Toughened Glass Is Good Substitute

Britain is using glass to save steel. It is translucent, toughened glass which can now take the place of steel as the top plate of hot cabinets in cafes and restaurants, safely standing up to temperatures of 125 to 150 degrees. In these days, when steel is scarce and steel is needed for the production of all factories over a certain size, the quantity of steel which can be saved is therefore considerable.

By admitting light to the cabinet, toughened glass lessens the work of the canteen staff in cleaning it and in serving the food. The glass takes a slightly longer time than steel to warm up, but it holds the heat better, thus substantially reducing heating costs, particularly in canteens with lengths of hot cabinets or a battery of steamers. And, of course, the glass costs less than the valuable steel which it releases for the war.

Fast Work

Turn Out A Lifeboat In England In Thirty-Six Hours

Six Breton refugees, by working without stop for 36 hours in a London boat-building yard, turned out a lifeboat in record time for a ship which was waiting to sail.

"One of our ships is leaving tomorrow night and we are a lifeboat short. Have you one for us?" That was the message a boat builder received from a shipping company official. The builder said he had one on the stocks which had just been started and that although he didn't think it could be completed in such short order he would have a try.

He called the Bretons and two English workers together, explained the situation to them and the ship sailed on time with its completed lifeboat.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.

By Alan Maurice Irwin

The main trouble with this business of trying to tell all about our Army is that the more you tell the more you discover still remains to be told.

Everyone has heard, some time or another, a public speaker mention "the various arms and services." What does that mean? That's what I asked. I asked the A.G., the C.G.S., the D.M.O. & I., and a dozen other high ranking officers.

Before we forget I suppose I'd better clear up those initials—some day, if the editor can spare the space, we'd better have a glossary of army terms—"A.G." is the Adjutant-General, "C.G.S.", Chief of the General Staff, and "D.M.O. & I.", Director of Military Operations and Intelligence.

There are probably nicknames for these high appointments but at the moment I can't tell you what they are. Last time I would have "turned out the guard" if I had seen any of them and so far I haven't covered that point on my present assignment.

But to get back to "arms and services." Here are the distinctions. "Arms" are the branches of the Army that carry out the tactical plans of the commander. They include: Artillery, Engineers, Signalers, Armoured Corps and Infantry. "Services" look after the arms, support and supply them. They are: Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, etc.

See? Simple, isn't it? Don't think for a minute, though, that when you refer to the Services, as supporting the arms that you are not referring to fighting soldiers. "Not by a means!" In the mechanized, all-out war of to-day—the war that the individual citizen's army is being so highly trained to fight—every man in uniform is a fighting man who has been trained first as a fighter before he was trained for or started work at his specialty.

Some of you will remember the somewhat nasty jibe—which was made by members of the "Arms" at members of one of the Services. It wasn't true, but to young hellions in uniform that didn't matter. We used to say that "R.A.M.C." when you reversed it stood for "Can't Manage a Rifle." It seemed funny at the time even if I was sorry for it. I found out that the stretcher-bearer who led me out of nasty spot when I couldn't see to make my own way had put his own "tin hat" on my head and carried on through a bombardment bare-headed.

Well, funny or not, jibes of that nature can't be made at anyone who wears a uniform to-day. Every officer or man in both Arms and Services starts his soldiering by taking the regular elementary training course. A stretcher-bearer in this war is as capable of assembling a Bren gun from scattered parts in the dark as a medical officer is of carrying out a major operation by the light of a motorcycle headlamp.

The same is true of Ordnance, Army Service Corps—every service. No matter what uniform a soldier in your army wears he is a fighting soldier.

Here is an interesting note while we are on the subject of all-round training. The trained mechanic, a man who is found in great numbers in both "Arms" and "Services," is a qualified "first-aid"er, having passed, as has every combatant soldier, a St. John's Ambulance course during his elementary training.

There was an occasion in the only war we old-timers can talk about with any authority when members of the "Services" turned to and did a real job of fighting, do you remember? On that occasion cooks, bakers, farriers, laundry-men and a host of other necessary, but not necessarily war-like, odds and ends turned to with cleavers, picks and shovels, hammers—anything that would serve as a weapon. They acquitted themselves well, too.

The weapons seemed archaic. They were. But to-day, if such a situation should arise the men would be ready for it. To-day there is a course given to all soldiers in "un-armed combat." This course teaches them how to use improvised weapons such as shrapnel helmets, fists, knees, boots in a lethal manner. Imagine what a man armed with a butcher's cleaver or a tailor's goose could do with them after learning to take care of himself without any arms. A few minutes ago I referred to a shrapnel helmet. Once we used to call them "tin hats." Now you frequently see them referred to as "bathtubbers"—what will they think of next?

Says Mrs. R. E. Erbes, Dorval, Quebec: "KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN has so many good qualities... it really is the 'Better Way'." It has been a family favorite for many years, and as long as it retains its qualities, ALL-BRAN will continue to be a big favorite in our home.

There is still an urgent need for mail clerk stenographers in the R. C. A. F. according to advice recently received from No. 2 Recruiting Centre, RCAF, Calgary.

Applicants should be able to take dictation at 75 words per minute and transcribe at 40 words per minute. They must be good penmen, able to transcribe clear concise English from rough notes. A knowledge of filing systems and general office procedure is required.

Qualified applicants should communicate immediately with No. 2 Recruiting centre, RCAF.

Chinook Has New Post Office

The removal of the Post Office from the R-d and White Store to its new location north of the Advance Printing Office was effected this week. Postmaster Warren moved the house from his farm south of town, and has made several improvements, the Post Office being in the front of the building with living accommodation in the rear. The office is commodious, well lighted heated with a furnace, hardwood floor, etc. and is one of the finest post offices along this line. After the exterior has been painted it will be an improvement to the north end of town. It's rather a coincidence or perhaps history repeating itself, that it is across the street from where the post office was located twenty years ago.

By Order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board

You Must Have a Licence by March 31, 1942

Every Person or Firm is Required to Have a Licence

1. if engaged in the business of buying for resale or selling any commodity; or
2. if engaged in the business of supplying any of the following services:
the supplying of electricity, gas, steam or water; telegraph, wireless or telephone services; the transportation of goods or persons; the provision of dock, harbour, or pier facilities; warehousing or storage; undertaking or embalming; laundering, cleaning, tailoring, or dressmaking; hairdressing, barbering, or beauty parlour services; plumbing, heating, painting, decorating, cleaning, or renovating; repairing of any kind; the supplying of meals, refreshments or beverages; the exhibiting of motion pictures; process manufacturing on a custom or commission basis.

IF YOU HAVE ALREADY APPLIED FOR OR OBTAINED A WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD LICENCE UNDER A PREVIOUS LICENSING ORDER, YOU SHOULD NOT APPLY AGAIN

Why Licence Applications Should Be Made At Once

Apart from the legal requirements, licensing of your business will enable the Board to advise you quickly and fully of the price ceiling regulations that affect your business.

The name of every person who has been granted a licence or who has already applied for a licence is being placed on the Board's mailing list. Your name will be added when your application is received.

To Get Your Licence

1. Get an application form at your nearest post office.
2. Complete the application and mail it, postage free. There is no licence fee.
3. You will receive by mail a Licence Identification Card bearing your licence number.

Those Who Do Not Need a Licence

1. farmers, gardeners, livestock or poultry producers, and fishermen, unless buying goods for resale.
2. employees of a person or firm which is itself subject to licence.
3. operators of private boarding houses.

NOTE: Persons who have already applied for or obtained a Wartime Prices and Trade Board licence should not apply again.

WHAT THE LAW REQUIRES YOU TO DO

After March 31, 1942, any official, representative, or investigator of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board may require you to produce your Licence Identification Card if you are subject to this licensing order.

After March 31, 1942, you must notify the Director of Licensing of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, in writing, quoting your licence number, of any change in the name, address, or character of your business within 10 days of such change.

You must retain your Licence Identification Card as it will remain in effect, unless suspended or cancelled, as long as the Maximum Prices Regulations continue. If you are already licensed, a Licence Identification Card, valid for the duration of these Regulations, will be automatically mailed to you before March 31, 1942. You need not apply for a renewal and there is no licence fee.
